OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60601

ROD R. BLAGOJEVICH GOVERNOR

March 25, 2007

G R E E T I N G S

As Governor of the State of Illinois, it is my pleasure to welcome you to Chicago for the 25th Annual Lifesavers Conference.

Illinois is proud to host the premier national conference on highway safety issues and priorities. As a result of innovative ideas that have come from the professionals attending this conference, great strides have been made in reducing fatalities and injuries on our roadways. Illinois is experiencing one of the lowest roadway fatality years since 1924 and credit must be given to conferences such as Lifesavers that gather experts from across the nation to network with attendees in an effort to make our streets, highways and citizens safer.

With in-depth workshops and expert panel members, there is no doubt that even more progress will be made this year. Thank you all for your dedication to highway safety and for your participation in Lifesavers 2007.

On behalf of the citizens of Illinois, I extend my best wishes for a successful conference.

Sincerely,

las agar

Rod R. Blagojevich Governor

How to Run "Diverse" Programs When You Don't Speak Multiple Languages

Sunday - 2:00pm-3:30pm

NW Hall #5 - Lower Level

What does "diversity" truly mean for your CPS program? Simply having non-English educational materials available to families does not mean your program is meeting diverse needs. In order to serve families to the best of our ability, we must also be able to communicate with them effectively. Both cultural differences and language barriers must be understood, then overcome. This workshop is designed for those who have limited experience and/or resources to successfully educate non-native English speakers.

Public Health and Traffic Injury Prevention Programs – A Beneficial Partnership

Sunday - 4:00pm-5:30pm NW Hall #3 - Lower Level

While traffic safety is typically viewed as within the purview of transportation or law enforcement agencies, state public health agencies can be valuable partners in addressing priority issues. There are many aspects of traffic safety where the priorities of transportation and public health agencies overlap, whether it's impaired driving, pedestrian safety, outreach to minority communities, or mobility among older adults, among other issues. This workshop will highlight examples of how public health initiatives are supporting traffic safety objectives.

At 5:30pm, after the last workshop on Sunday, head down to the Southwest and Southeast Exhibit Halls for the grand kickoff to the Lifesavers 25th Anniversary celebration! Vendors, Food, and Song (actually, no song...but there will be comedy later!)! Five identical buffet stations will be located around the perimeter of the exhibit halls, so make sure you check out their locations on the exhibit hall diagram on page 34 of this program. This will remain the same throughout the conference. Buffet tip: the food station closest to the door always has a line so keep going!

Poster Session

Don't forget to visit the Poster Session which will be located near the Lifesavers Conference Registration desk. The presenters will be at their posters from 6:00pm-7:15pm to answer any questions.

25th Anniversary T-Shirt Pick-up

6:00pm to 7:45pm: Stop by the Lifesavers Registration Desk to receive your 25th anniversary t-shirt (be sure to bring your ticket in your registration envelope), then head up to the International Ballroom and grab a seat for the Second City comedy show. Vendors, Poster Session, Food, T-shirt, Comedy Show – we think it's an offer you can't refuse!

8:00pm – 9:00pm

Second City Performance

International Ballroom, 2nd Floor

Chicago's own legendary Second City Comedy Troupe will be taking center stage Sunday night kicking off what is sure to be the best Lifesavers Conference in 25 years! Buckle up and get ready to have your funny bone tickled as you cruise down the laughter highway. Started in the 1950s by a group of University of Chicago students, Second City revolutionized both comedy and theater. Started as a playwrights group which eventually opened its own theater in Chicago, Second City is a comedy institution that has launched the careers of comedy greats John Belushi, Dan Aykroyd, Gilda Radner, Bill Murray, John Candy, Mike Myers and the list goes on and on. Their traveling troupe will be performing skits written especially for the Lifesavers Conference in addition to several of their own "Best Of" skits. After the Opening Reception, head to the Registration Area to pick up your special Lifesavers Conference T-shirt (you must present your ticket in your registration packet), then head up to the International Ballroom and grab a seat for what is sure to be a memorable ride!

Employer-Based and Military Traffic Safety Programs

Monday - 9:30am-11:00am

NW Hall #2 - Lower Level

Employers have a vested interest in promoting traffic safety. Those who implement roadway safety management systems see significant decreases in their crash rates in a relatively short period of time. Learn how one Highway Safety Office works with employers in its state to promote local traffic safety initiatives and how a private sector firm has implemented its program. The military also recognizes the toll traffic crashes have on their personnel, and they have instituted traffic safety programs to address that. These efforts could be modified and utilized for other organizations or institutions interested in developing on-the-job traffic safety programs for their employees.

Tweens in Boosters and Belts

Monday - 1:00pm-2:30pm Grand Ballroom - Second Level

The broad age range we call "tweens" includes children who still need to use boosters and also older children who can ride in safety belts. While educational efforts are still needed for proper booster seat use, new research indicates that older children are already aware of the benefits of safety belts. Advocates must use strategies based on available data to go beyond education to make an impact on these children. Attendees will learn tips to get older children to wear their belts, and how to keep children in boosters until they outgrow them.

7th Workshop Session

Preventing CPS Burnout

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am

Grand Ballroom - Second Level

This workshop will provide methods and strategies to help state and local CPS program coordinators keep their CPS technicians involved and happy. Successful activities for teaching the CPS certification course, hosting a state CPS conference, and incentives to keep technicians involved and certified will be presented.

Moderator:

Commander Paul Rizzo, Schaumburg Police Department, Schaumburg, IL

Speakers:

Rhonda Parker, Training Coordinator, Utah Highway Safety Office, Salt Lake City, UT

Impaired Driving Technologies: Research and Practice

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am

NW Hall #5 - Lower Level

In the past decade, technologies, including ignition interlocks, electronic monitoring, and transdermal alcohol testing, have been developed to enhance enforcement, sanctioning and rehabilitation. This workshop will provide participants with a comprehensive overview of how these technologies work, what the research says about their effectiveness, the most efficient ways to implement them from a program perspective and what we can expect for the future. Presenters will talk about how large scale application can eliminate impaired driving.

Moderator:

Chuck Hurley, CEO, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Irving, TX

Speakers:

Ward Vanlaar, Research Associate, Traffic Injury Research Foundation, Ottawa, Ontario, CN

Susan Ferguson, Ph.D., President, Ferguson International, LLC, McLean, VA

Rob Strassburger, Vice President of Safety, Alliance of Automobile Manufacturers, Washington, DC

The Senior Boom: What Are the Implications for Traffic Safety?

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am Continental B - Lobby Level

Most people know that the Baby Boom generation is starting to retire, and that they have higher traffic fatality rates. Are traffic safety programs prepared to address this new wave of older road users? This workshop will focus on aging drivers, motorcycle riders, and pedestrians. Speakers will discuss best practices for reaching the older population on traffic safety issues, the role of law enforcement in working with seniors; and traffic safety resources.

Moderator:

Joanne Schwartzberg, M.D., Director, Department of Aging and Community Health, American Medical Association, Chicago, IL

Speakers:

Patrick Judge, Executive Director, International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, Ft. Myers, FL

Elin Schold-Davis, American Occupational Therapy Association, Bethesda, MD

Impaired Driving

Impacting DWI Adjudication from the Outside - Part 2: Information Gathering

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am

Continental C - Lobby Level

The criminal justice system, especially as it relates to drunk driving, can be notoriously difficult to change even for those within the system. This workshop will discuss ways to determine the effectiveness of the system and gather data to support system improvements. Part I and II feature different solutions, but you need not view one to view the other.

Moderator:

Isaac Avery, Prosecutor Liaison under contract, NHTSA Southeast Regional Office, Raleigh, NC

Speakers:

Angela Downes, J.D., Court Monitoring Program Manager, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Irving, TX

Richard G. McCowen, Ph.D., Principal Investigator, Research Assistant Professor, The University of Memphis, Department of Psychology, Memphis, TN

Carol Cotton, Ph.D., MEd, University of Georgia, Dept. of Health Promotion and Behavior, College of Public Health, Athens, GA

Getting to School Safely

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am

NW Hall #1 - Lower Level

Are three-point belts on the horizon for school buses? How can we enhance safety for children who are walking and bicycling to school? This workshop will present the results of a pilot study in North Carolina on the real-world experience of three-point belts on school buses - the challenges and the benefits. Would three-point belts on buses take school bus safety to a new level or would the cost be so high that they would end up having a negative effect on safety? Beyond the school bus, the workshop will also highlight safe practices such as how to organize a walking school bus, and Safe Routes to School programs.

Moderator/Speaker:

Nancy Pullen-Seufert, M.P.H., Program Manager, National Center for Safe Routes to School, University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center, Chapel Hill, NC

Speakers:

Derek Graham, Section Chief, Transportation Services, N.C. Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, NC Melody Geraci, Director of the Safe Routes to School Program, Chicagoland Bike Federation, Chicago, IL

🐻 Criminal Justice

Prioritizing Traffic Safety

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am

NW Hall #2 - Lower Level

Traffic enforcement IS law enforcement. Further, the vast majority of law enforcement/citizen encounters occur during traffic stops. Presenters will discuss strategies to prioritize traffic safety as a core value for law enforcement, focusing on impaired driving, occupant protection and speeding, and how this emphasis can promote overall public safety.

Moderator:

Brian Ursino, Assistant Chief, Washington State Patrol, Field Operations Bureau, Olympia, WA

Speakers:

Sheriff John Whetsel, Oklahoma County Sheriff's Office, Oklahoma City, OK

Alex Weiss, Ph.D., Director, Northwestern University Center for Public Safety, Evanston, IL

Adult Occupant Protection Impaired Driving

Using Best Practices to Increase Restraint Use and Reduce Impaired Driving in Native American Communities

Tuesday - 8:30am-10:00am NW Hall #4 - Lower Level

Despite significant improvements over the past 20 years, the motor vehicle death rate for Native Americans is still almost two times greater than the U.S. national rate. CDC has been funding four tribes to design, implement and evaluate evidence-based strategies to reduce alcoholimpaired driving and increase restraint use. Speakers will describe these projects and their bottom line impact.

Moderator/Speaker:

L.J. David Wallace, M.S.E.H., CDC, National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, Atlanta, GA

Speakers:

Christine Reede, Project Coordinator, Motor Vehicle Injury Prevention Coordinator, San Carlos Apache Police Department, San Carlos, AZ

Keeping Law Enforcement Involved in CPS

Tuesday - 10:15am-11:15am

NW Hall #5 - Lower Level

This workshop will share ways to encourage law enforcement agencies and individual officers to take a serious, thoughtful look at the issue of CPS and work to raise usage. Examples of low-cost, easy-to-replicate PI&E efforts and ways to engage LE agencies will be shared. CHOP will discuss the results of two surveys. One in which parents rate LE officers as a primary source for accurate CPS information and another in which officers (CPS techs) described their needs and preferences for educational materials.

Moderator/Speaker:

Bob Wall, Virginia Law Enforcement Liaison, Virginia Association of Chiefs of Police, Middletown, VA

Speakers:

Kathryn Wesolowski, Safe Community Coordinator, Rainbow Babies & Children's Hospital, Cleveland, OH

An Important Link in Traffic Safety Programs: Commercial Vehicles

Tuesday - 10:15am-11:15am

NW Hall #1 - Lower Level

Crashes involving large trucks account for more than 5,000 fatalities every year. This workshop will highlight successful commercial vehicle safety programs that should be part of any highway safety program, including data systems to identify high crash locations to target enforcement efforts, results of a high-visibility pilot project to reduce conflicts between vehicles and large trucks, and successful share the road efforts.

Moderator:

Ian Grossman, Director, Office of Communications, FMCSA, Washington, DC

Speakers:

Michael Knodler, Ph.D., University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA

What the Data are Telling us About the Unbelted Population; It's Not Yet Time to Declare Victory

Tuesday - 10:15am-11:15am

NW Hall #3 - Lower Level

Observed daytime safety belt use is 82% (2005 NOPUS). Surveys in Connecticut and New Mexico show nighttime use to be substantially lower. FARS data show restraint use by fatally injured vehicle occupants to be less than 50% overall and less than 30% in midnight and 3:00 am crashes. What do we know about those who still don't buckle up, how many of them are there, and what does it all mean to highway safety program managers?

Moderator/Speaker:

James H. Hedlund, Ph.D., Principal, Highway Safety North, Ithaca, NY

Speakers:

Troy Costales, Governor's Highway Safety Representative, Oregon Department of Transportation, Salem, OR

Joseph S. Carra, Associate Administrator for the National Center for Statistics & Analysis, U.S. DOT/NHTSA/NCSA, Washington, DC

Contemporary Issues in Drivers Licensing

Tuesday - 10:15am-11:15am

NW Hall #4 - Lower Level

This workshop will evaluate three specific issues in driver's licensing: The increasing complexities surrounding suspended and revoked drivers, particularly those suspended for non-driving offenses; impacts on driver's licensing implicated in the Real ID Act; and a briefing on an operational pilot demonstration of digital watermarking technologies utilized in driver's licenses in Nebraska.

Moderator/Speaker:

Philip Weiser, Regional Administrator, NHTSA New England Region, Cambridge, MA

Speakers:

Selden Fritschner, Vice President, Law Enforcement, American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, Arlington, VA

"It's Not Easy Being Green," but it is easy getting to Portland! Join us for lunch at Tuesday's closing luncheon when the Windy City blows Lifesavers into the nation's greenest city, Portland, Oregon, for 2008! Called the "City of Roses," Portland boasts amazing rose gardens, one of the nation's largest city parks, an incredible recycling program, and over 50 public buildings that meet the United States Green Building Council standards. Be sure to stop by Portland, Oregon's booth in the exhibit hall for more information on this amazing city!

Lifesavers 2008 • Workshop Submissions April 13-15, 2008 – Oregon Convention Center – Portland, Oregon

Please Note:

Each year Lifesavers gets far more workshop requests than it can accommodate. Every attempt is made to include in the program those subjects that have demonstrated the best potential to impact a highway safety problem in a state or community. All workshop suggestions must be submitted on-line at the Lifesavers conference website, www.lifesaversconference.org. Submissions must describe the proposed workshop in sufficient detail to permit Lifesavers to judge the proposal. Submissions for workshops that describe intervention approaches or specific projects must also include a description of any evaluations documenting the impact of the approach or project. Preference will be given to approaches and projects that have been demonstrated to have a bottom line impact on the problem addressed, i.e., crashes, injuries, fatalities, restraint use, impaired driving or other measurable results related to a specific target group.

The deadline for submissions is July 31, 2007. You will be contacted by December 15, 2007 regarding your submission. Submission of a proposal or topic does not guarantee selection to the program.

While your workshop idea may be used or combined with other related topics, you may or may not be asked to be a speaker.

If you believe your project has merit but its potential impact has yet to be evaluated, you may wish to submit it to the Lifesavers Poster Session. A poster session is a graphic display of a program or other activity. Details regarding the poster session is available on the Lifesavers website. Applications for the 2008 conference will be available on the website in December 2007.

Work Related Motor Vehicle Crashes among Electric Utility Workers

Authors: Tiffani Fordyce, Michael Kelsh, Gabor Mezei – Exponent Failure Analysis Associates

Electric utility service vehicles and the workers who operate them comprise a distinct subgroup that is significantly different from other vehicles and workers involved in work-related vehicle crashes. Types of vehicles operated by electric utility workers typically include bucket trucks, digger/derrick trucks, washer trucks, pole and material trucks and trailers, and other vehicles used in line construction and maintenance. These vehicles are generally operated over low mileage, local routes, and for short periods of time. The drivers are not "drivers" by profession, but are often technical employees who operate a vehicle to get from one job site to another, often using their vehicle as a mobile tool or as a work platform to perform their duties. For these workers, driving their utility service vehicle is a necessary incidental of their job function. This poster summarizes the results of a preliminary analysis undertaken to more accurately define and describe work-related motor vehicle crashes and crash trends among electric utility workers. Factors considered include worker characteristics, crash conditions, operator actions, location, and type of vehicle involved.

Motorcycle Lane Spliting

Author: Tiffani Fordyce, Wendy VanSelow – Exponent Failure Analysis Associates

Though anecdotal evidence suggests it is a dangerous practice, evidence regarding motorcycle lane splitting as a safety issue has not been well established in the professional safety literature. Lane splitting laws vary between states, and within states laws tend to be complex, allowing lane splitting only in selected circumstances. This poster summarizes the results of analyses using state and national motor vehicle crash databases; a selection of states where lane splitting is legal and illegal were chosen for comparison. In these analyses, we looked at various factors present in multiple vehicle motorcycle crashes which could be related to lane splitting. We found that a higher percentage of motorcycle crashes involve changing lanes, passing, and overtaking in states where lane splitting is legal. Though not conclusive, our results suggest motorcycle lane splitting may be a safety issue that needs to be examined in more detail.

Age 4 to 9? It's Booster Seat Time! Safe Kids Week 2004 Program Evaluation

Authors: Dr. Colin Macarthur, Ali Moses-McKeag, Nicole Beben, Dorrie Fissel, Dr. Andrew Howard – Safe Kids Canada

The Safe Kids Week Campaign was effective in improving child passenger safety in Canadian children between ages 4 and 9. Parents exposed to campaign messages were more likely to use the correct type of restraint and were also more likely to identify at least one proper criterion for safe seat belt use for children compared to the pretest and unexposed parent groups. Increased public education and advocacy efforts may have led to the result of increased support of booster seat legislation post campaign.

Strategies for Pedestrian Safety

Authors: Shawna DiFilippo, Linda Ward – Safe Kids Canada

As a knowledge broker, Safe Kids Canada developed a comprehensive program to help communities address pedestrian injuries in their communities. Through an extensive literature review and an environmental scan, a Guide and companion presentation offering a template for implementing local pedestrian safety projects was created. The project stresses the need to undertake safety issues holistically through a combined approach of education, environment, and enforcement. Communities are now receiving the resource and beginning to create programs.

Increase in Driver Injury Risk Due to Unrestrained Rear Seat Passengers

Authors: James Mayrose, Alan Blatt, David Roberts, Michael Kilgallon, Bob Galganski, Dietrich Jehle – CUBRC

This research examines how the presence of an unrestrained rear-seat passenger seated directly behind an airbag and/or belt-restrained driver affects the driver's risk of injury. Empirical data used in the study was obtained from four crash tests that simulated a frontal (head-on) impact between two vehicles. The test data showed that when an unrestrained rear passenger was present, the driver incurred a high likelihood of severe head and chest injuries. No such injuries were inferred when a restrained rear seat passenger was present. It was concluded that unrestrained rear-seat passengers place themselves, as well as their driver at great risk of serious injury when involved in a head-on crash.

The Use of Geocoded FARS Data and Ortholmagery to Identify Fatal Motorcycle Crash Locations

Authors: Kevin Majka, Alan Blatt, Marie Flanigan, Saverio Pugliese – CUBRC

This map explores two relatively new resources in transportation safety research, geocoded FARS data and roadway ortholmagery, to examine the geospatial characteristics of fatal motorcycle crashes in the United States. The objective of this study is to investigate the geospatial patterns of fatal motorcycle crashes to determine if newly available analysis tools can be used to gain additional insight in crash causation and potential crash mitigation strategies. Specifically illustrated here are locations involving single vehicles (motorcycles) that collided with guard rails on curved roadways with 55 miles an hour posted speed limits and resulting in fatalities.

Cubs Click It for Safety: A School-Based Intervention for early Tweens

Authors: Beverly Miller, Hope Mullins, Virginia Lancaster, Mary Porter, Joyelle Mitchell, Mary E. Aitken, MD, MPH – University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences and Arkansas Children's Hospital

Problem: Cubs Click It for Safety builds on "Click It or Ticket" educational campaigns to promote seat belt use and rear seating for children coming out of booster seat use. Daily visual and auditory reminders are delivered by peers over the school's closed circuit television system and visuals are displayed in prominent entrance and exit areas. Education on restraint use is woven throughout the school year in family events. A student Cubs Club assists staff in developing the content and delivery of messages. Pre-and post-intervention measurements are conducted by self-reporting surveys from students and parents and observational surveys conducted by a trained student research team working under staff supervision.

Pilot of a Community Education Campaign on All Terrain Vehicle Safety

Authors: Hope Mullins; Beverly Miller; John Nixon; Mary E. Aitken, MD, MPH; James Graham, MD – University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences and Arkansas Children's Hospital

All terrain vehicle (ATV) injury is a growing problem for children. An intensive educational campaign was conducted in the rural county in Arkansas with the highest injury rates in the state. Materials and media tailored for local interest promoted four key safety messages to reduce the risk of serious injury or death due to an ATV crash. Partners in the project included ATV and insurance industry and a multi-disciplinary hospital team. Members of a local health-related coalition served as technical advisor and assisted in the project's activities. Pre-and post-evaluation of the controlled study included self-reported use and safety habit surveys conducted through public schools and observational surveys conducted by trained volunteers.

Effects of Alcohol on the Adolescent Brain

Authors: Lora Weaver, Vernon Dolberry – Northeast Alabama Traffic Safety Office

The program explores the effects of alcohol on the adolescent brain in a factual, non-judgmental, easy to understand fashion that is designed to reach middle school and high school youths before they start driving. The fun-filled PowerPoint presentation is geared toward giving the students the straight facts and encouraging them to make the right decisions for themselves through a lot of dialogue and interaction between the presenter and the students. The presentation is based largely on the book, "Just Say Know" and uses photos and caricatures of one of the greatest minds of the 20th century, Albert Einstein.

Teaching Teens to Drive: A Class for Parents of New Drivers

Author: Celeste Schoenthaler – Mesa County Health Department

"Teaching Your Teen to Drive" is a class for parents and caregivers of new drivers. The class is one hour in length and includes information on: risks of teen driving, understanding the Graduated Drivers License law, tips on teaching teens to drive, and setting realistic expectations with teenagers. The class is taught by the Injury Prevention Health Educator at the Health Department, the Grand Junction Police Department, and an agent from the auto insurance industry.

"Saving The Next Generation"

Author: Amy Cozad – Kiowa Tribe of Oklahoma

Information for this campaign originated from research on state and national information (CDC-NHTSH-WISQARS-OHSO-National Highway Offices & Resources) on estimate according to recent surveys locally and by CDC Oklahoma death rates for Native Americans in MVA are at 90 persons or more a year. A stretch of treacherous road in our rural community takes 5 to 7 lives a year. Native Americans tend to relate to a media that is more personable. A common ground is always eye-catching.

Alternative Transportation Education

Authors: Philip Miller, Robin Butler, Lyndy Moore – Seminole County Community Traffic Safety Team

The Seminole County CTST Fatality Reduction Subcommittee learned from analyzing crash reports that those killed as bicyclists and/or pedestrians were more likely to have multiple infractions, suspension or revocation to their DL. A partnership with local agencies was developed to offer a course educating individuals with suspended or revoked DL's of alternative travel modes. This course is mandated by County judges.

Lights, Camera, Bicycling Action

Author: Dean Schott – League of Illinois Bicyclists

Learn how the League of Illinois Bicyclists produced a motorist-bicyclist safety video from conception and grant application to completion and distribution. The seven minute video, narrated by former pro bicyclist Robbie Ventura describes the danger zones that motorists should be alert to when encountering bicyclists. The video has been distributed free of charge to 2,000 Illinois high school driver education programs, private driving schools, police and sheriff's departments and shared with hundreds of individuals and groups across the country.

Evaluation of the 2006 "Click It or Ticket" Campaign in Illinois

Author: Mehdi Nassirpour – Illinois Department of Transportation

This paper evaluates the 2006 Illinois "Click it or Ticket" campaign (a nationally recognized high visibility and massive effort to detect violators of safety belt laws) using pre and post observational and public opinion surveys during April and June 2006. Results of both observational and public opinion surveys show a significant increase in the safety belt usage rate and public awareness of the campaign slogan. Other findings of observational surveys and telephone surveys as well as media and enforcement activities and their policy implications were discussed.

Teen Driving: The Importance of Families in Life Skill Development

Authors: Katherine Heck, Carla Sousa, Dave Snell – Teens Making Decisions Research Project Group, University of California Cooperative Extension

The research team surveyed 1,939 high school seniors around California on driver education, driver training, and driver behaviors. This analysis looked at the importance of parents in the driver education process. Nearly half (47%) of the students said their parents were the most helpful resource for them when learning to drive. In multivariate analysis, specific family rules were protective against crashes and against driving after alcohol or drug use.

The Madrina-Padrino Traffic Safety Project: Partnering for Prevention in the Hispanic Community

Author: Lizette Villameal – South Texas Injury Prevention & Research Center at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio

Through a project funded by the Texas Department of Transportation, the South Texas Injury Prevention and Research Center supports and expands the Madrina-Padrino Traffic Safety Project. The Madrina-Padrino Safety project is considered one of the few minority programs that combine the three priority program areas identified by NHTSA. The project incorporates characteristics delineated by culture-specific beliefs, customs, values, and traditions found within the Hispanic community while at the same time conveying the importance of adopting bicultural elements and strategies that promote and increase traffic safety among our most vulnerable of populations: adult males, newly arrived immigrants, and children. This poster will discuss the process of a community partnership to develop and enhance a culturally appropriate prevention model that incorporates symbols, concepts, and institutional delivery systems (family, religious symbolism, and community-based organizations) in order to raise awareness and enhance knowledge and understanding among the Hispanic community about traffic safety laws and norms in Texas regarding drinking and driving, child passenger safety, and safety belt use.

Neighborhood Pride and The Bicycle Safety Festival: A Multi-Faceted Approach to Injury Prevention/Education

Authors: Nichole Hodges, MPH,CHES; Kathy Cookman, BS, CSTR, CAISS – Injury Free Coalition for Kids of Columbs & Central Ohio

Since 2004, Columbus' Neighborhood Pride Bicycle Safety Festival has allowed Central Ohio ThinkFirst and the Injury Free Coalition For Kids of Columbus to provide injury prevention education, in the form of "ThinkFirst for Kids" and bicycle helmets to over 4,200 children in urban Columbus communities.

High School Focus Groups on Seat Belt Use, 2006

Authors: Beth Siddens, Tina Whitlow – Barren River District Health Department

This poster will present findings from 11 focus group interviews conducted in area high schools to learn more about teen seat belt behaviors and attitudes. Our observational surveillance indicates that teen and young adult drivers are the age group least likely to be buckled up on the road. Focus group interviews gave us valuable information for planning intervention activities across our eight county service area. We learned more about why teens buckle up, and why not, who influences this decision, and how to begin changing social norms. See the PowerPoint version on our website at www.barrenriverhealth.org.

RCL Project: An Initiative to Improve Traffic Safety in Georgia's Rural Communities

Authors: Carol P. Cotton, PhD; Allison Grimes, BS, OTR/L; Erin Kirkbride, BA, MA; Brook Snoddy, MPH; Stuart Fors, EdD; Wayd Walker, JD, Med – The University of Georgia, College of Public Health, Traffic Safety Research and Evaluation Group

The Regional Community Liaison (RCL) project is a three-year pilot project intended to address the issues of traffic safety data collection, maintenance and analysis at the local level statewide in Georgia. The goal of this project is to place RCLs throughout the state where they will act as a resource for local traffic safety professionals, assist in data collection and research and support funded traffic safety projects on the community. A standardized assessment was used to guide data collection in various regions around the state, ultimately leading to the assignment of a "Community Readiness" score for each region. Results show that each region is in a different state of readiness to change. These findings will be used to create individualized plans to address community concerns and to build on community strengths.

Advanced Street Name Sign Program

Authors: Thomas Washburn, PE, Pinnellas County; David Fechter, AICP, HNTB Corporation; Sergio Quevedo, PE, HNTB Corporation – HNTB Corporation

The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) Elder Road User Program countermeasures provide for better guidance along roadways, more legible signs and increased advance warning of upcoming traffic and roadway conditions. The Pineallas County Public Works Transportation Division identified McMullen-Booth Road (CR 611), a major north-south corridor with a significant crash history, for advanced street name signs at 19 signalized intersections, as a pilot program. Working with HNTB, Pinellas County will design and install the advanced street name signs, proven important in providing more decision time to the driver than overhead street name signs alone. Impact on traffic safety, including intersection crash analysis, will be analyzed both before and after installation.

Institutionalization of Evaluation in Georgia Highway Safety Programs

Authors: Carol Cotton, PhD; Kelli Magee BSFCS; Stu Fors, EdD; James Barlament, MA – The University of Georgia, College of Public Health, Traffic Safety Research and Evaluation Group

The objective of this poster is to demonstrate the effectiveness of traffic safety programs made possible by grants from the Georgia Governor's Office of Highway Safety (GOHS). It describes the three-year evaluation efforts of the Traffic Safety Research and Evaluation Group (TSREG) in assessing and documenting program outcomes for GOHS grantees. TSREG facilitates grantee success by closely monitoring program implementation through evaluability assessments, reviewing monthly program activity, and performing midpoint and final analyses of GOHS grantee data. This information is utilized by GOHS in each funding cycle. In FY 2005, GOHS at least partially met 66.7% of its goals through the collective effort of all of its grantees' programs, an increase of 24.2% from FY 2004.

Be a Buckle Buddy! 1-888-800-2642

Author: Chris Franciskovich – Children's Hospital of Illinois

The Be A Buckle Buddy! Line is a statewide toll-free number in Illinois that allows drivers to anonymously report unbuckled children. Reported drivers will receive a letter and information regarding child passenger safety laws. The hotline is a unique opportunity for several community organizations to pool resources to save lives.

Protecting Moms and the Fetus: A New Priority for Child Passenger Safety

Authors: Harold Weiss, Erin Sauber-Schatz – University of Pittsburgh Center for Injury Research and Control

About 3% of all live births in the United States are exposed in-utero to a police-reported crash. This means that at least 100,000 children each year are exposed to a motor-vehicle crash in the United States. Injuries due to motor vehicles are the number one cause of maternal death during pregnancy, hospitalized trauma during pregnancy and traumatic fetal injury mortality. Because the fetus takes on the risks of the mother and is susceptible to injuries and treatments that the mother receives, their injury and death rates may be much higher than children for many types of injury. Viewed as an injury problem, trauma during pregnancy becomes a leading cause of childhood injury. Maternal trauma should be addressed by passenger safety advocates because it is a leading cause of child injury and the long term impacts are just barely understood.

Poster Number 27 Minnesota Rural County Road Safety Audits

Author: Karen Sprattler – SRF Consulting Group

In 2005, 70% of Minnesota traffic fatalities occurred on rural roadways. In 2006, eleven primarily rural Minnesota counties were awarded state/federal funding to perform road safety audits (RSA) to improve the safety of these roadway systems. Road safety audits are an emerging safety strategy designed to involve all four E's: engineering, enforcement, education and emergency medical services in the analysis of and development of solutions to problem crash locations.

Using Best Practices to Increase Occupant Restraint Use in Ho-Chunk Communities

Authors: Nicole Thunder; Robert Letourneau, MPH – Ho-Chunk Nation & University of North Carolina

This presentation describes Ho-Chunk Nation's continuing efforts, using CDC funding provided to American Indian/Alaska Native Tribes. Formative evaluation activities including tribal member and law enforcement surveys to assess attitudes, knowledge, skills, and behaviors/practices regarding MV-safety have been conducted. To plan intervention activities to increase the use of seatbelts and child passenger safety seats among Ho-Chunk Tribal Members. Baseline seatbelt and child passenger safety seat use rates have also been identified and have shown an increase from year one to year two of the project. These evaluation activities are guiding intervention activities, including: child passenger safety training events for law enforcement personnel in each of the five counties served by the project; coordination with the local law enforcement to conduct "Click It or Ticket" activities; and ongoing community-wide education and awareness activities.

The Journey to Reduce Motor Vehicle Crash Injuries on the San Carlos Apache Reservation

Authors: Christine Reede, Alejandro Benally, Angela Johnson, Stephen Piontkowshi, Gordon Tsatoke, Lawrence Berger – San Carlos Tribal Police Department

The San Carlos Apache Motor Vehicle Injury Prevention Program, operated by the tribal police department and funded by CDC, sought to reduce injuries from MVCs using proven strategies: sobriety checkpoints, passing and enforcing a 0.08 BAC law and a new occupant protection law, and program marketing. After one year of operation DUI arrests increased 25% and crashes decreased 18%. Factors for success include community leadership, Tribal Council support, and extensive partnerships with local, state, federal and national entities.

Alcohol Impaired Driving Project

Author: Kathy Kendrick, MPH, CHES – County of Orange Health Care Agency, Alcohol and Drug Education and Prevention Team

The Alcohol Impaired Driving Project describes the steps in developing a grassroots community-based task force to reduce alcohol impaired driving problems in the community. The poster will provide a road map that includes assessing community readiness, developing a task force, implementing interventions and evaluating the impact of the project on the participants of the task force and the community. The participant will learn to: A. Describe the process of a community resource inventory; B. Establish, promote and maintain a localized community based task force; C. Develop a logic model for a localized community based impaired driving project; and D. Utilize evaluation tools to measure the impact of a task force intervention.

Excess Risk of Casualty Crashes Among Teen Drivers: Crash Types and Individual Characteristics

Authors: C. Raymond Bingham, Jean T. Shope – University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute

Michigan State Police crash records were used to compare casualty crash rates of the statewide Michigan populations of teen (ages 16-19 years) and adult drivers (ages 45-65 years) who crashed in 1989-1996 (1.4 million cases combined). Rate ratios comparing teens to adults from these statewide populations were calculated based on crash occurrence per 100,000 person miles driven. Excess risk was defined as a rate ratio for a specific crash type that significantly exceeded the rate ratio for all crashes involving teen drivers. Teens were at excess risk of casualty crashes occurring on the weekend (r.r.=2.90), during a maneuver (i.e., turning, backing, passing) (r.r.=3.19), when a passenger was present (r.r.=3.52), resulting from failure to yield (r.r.=4.0-8), occurring at night (r.r.-4.21) and involving a road departure (r.r.=7.65) or speeding (r.r.=11.18). The results of this research have implications for policy, legislation, and driver education. This study is funded by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Utah's Drowsy Driver Campaign

Author: W. Scott Jones – Utah Department of Transportation

Utah has tried several ways to reduce run-off-theroad crashes caused by fatigued and drowsy driving. One of our most visible campaigns is a series of roadside signs intended to heighten driver awareness of this issue. We will show pictures of our highway signs and present statistics of crashes before and after installation of the signs. Drowsy driving campaign posters from other initiatives will also be on display.

Rethinking Injury: A Cognitive Developmental Approach to Creating Strategies

Authors: Christina Balioussis, Juan Pascual-Leone, Janice Johnson – York University

In this paper, Pascual-Leone's developmental theory of mental capacity in children serves as a model for applied injury prevention initiatives. Theory-guided task analysis is used to estimate the ages at which children may engage in various road activities safely. These claims are supported through existing literature.

The College and University Drinking and Driving Prevention Awards Program: An Effort to Reduce Drinking and Driving on Campus

Authors: Steven Bloch, PhD; Barbara Ryan – Auto Club of Southern California, Center for College Health & Safety

Drinking and driving among college students remains a large and intractable problem. While researchers estimate that 1,717 college students die annually in alcohol-related incidents, nearly 80% were killed in drinking and driving crashes. In 1997, AAA affiliates and the national Higher Education Center/Center for College Health and Safety devised the Prevention Awards Program to promote development of innovative model drinking and driving programs, as well as alcohol prevention programs that can lead to reduced DUI/DWI. Over the past 10 years the program has operated in up to nine states and provided 41 college programs with awards and cash prizes. This poster will provide information about the types of programs that have been developed and instituted on campus, their effectiveness and limitations, and ways these programs could have been improved.

Blitz Poster Campaign – Marketing Safety for Students

Author: Keith Sims - Safe Campuses Now

This exhibit spotlights specific programmatic initiatives for students at the University of Georgia and Clarke Central High School, two of at least 32 schools in the northeast Georgia region that employ active Safe Campuses Now strategies to reach students with important safety messages. Approaching public health social marketing in a non-typical way, based on direct input from high school and college students, SCN created the Blitz Poster Campaign to increase awareness of various highway safety issues and create behavioral change in viewers. In a recent survey of high school juniors and seniors, about half responded that they had ridden in a car with drunk driver. After viewing Blitz posters about the dangers of riding with an impaired driver, 82% of the students indicated that they would not take this action again.

Mobile Versus Permanent Passenger Safety Stations

Authors: Magalie Thomas; Julia Belkowitz, MD; Gayane Stepanian, MA; Lyse Deus; Steve Dearwater, MS; Susan Uhlhorn, PhD; Maria Calvo; Leslie Jauregui, MS; Judy Schaechter, MD – Injury Free Coalition for Kids of Miami

A study was conducted to explore the impact of an intercultural mobile passenger safety program as compared to an intercultural permanent station in reaching families; and understand community practices in child passenger safety in a large rural-urban, culturally and linguistically diverse community.

The Over-40 Motorcyclist: A Comparison Between the "Returning Rider" and the "Enthusiast"

Author: Sherry Williams – Motorcycle Safety Foundation

This poster presentation looks at the characteristics of motorcycle riders in the 40 and over age group. This age group represents the largest segment of motorcycle owners and the fastest growing segment of fatal injuries on motorcycles in recent years. One subgroup of this over-40 group, "Returning Riders," may hold some promise for understanding this rise in fatalities. The Motorcycle Safety Foundation (in conjunction with Irwin Broh & Associates) conducted a survey in 2006 with a random sample of over 1,000 motorcycle owners in the U.S. using the National Family Opinion panel. Results from the survey are presented with emphasis on the characteristics of a "Returning Rider" (the rider experienced a significant time period without riding a motorcycle and then returned to the activity) compared to those of an "Enthusiast" or "Continuing Rider" (the rider has been riding consistently over the years).

Making It Click: Hospital and Community Together

Authors: Susan Laurence; Rebeccah Brown, MD; Crystal Ricketts, PhD – Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center

This poster presentation demonstrates how a hospital can incorporate an in-house education program for physicians, nurses, and other staff. It also outlines a CRS distribution program for low income children and a loaner program for children that have special health care needs. The poster will highlight engaging the community in child passenger safety by partnering with community physicians, daycares, churches, social service agencies, Childbirth Education associations, and local businesses. It also describes our Fitting Station Program that has over 40 locations.

Safety Town...A fun, interactive way to teach children how to be safe.

Author: Donna Grather, RN, BSN, CEN, PHRN – Lehigh Valley Hospital and Health Network

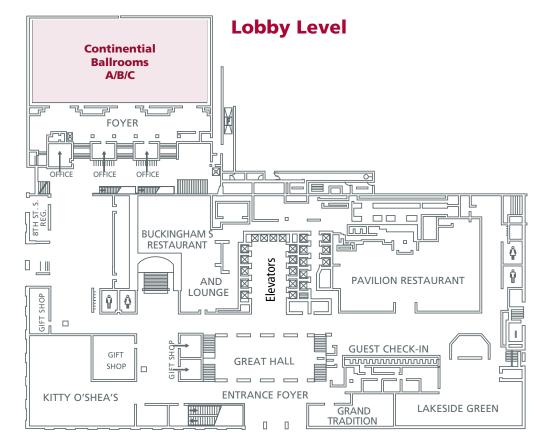

Safety Town is an interactive, child-sized town with safety messages scattered throughout. The town was constructed with the vision of having children begin at home and travel through a normal day in their lives; school, park and neighborhood while discussing what dangers they may encounter along the way.

Global Road Safety Week April 23 – 29, 2007

Global Road Safety Week (GRSW) is an international collaborative effort designed to promote road traffic safety on the world stage. Hundreds of initiatives will take place around the world.

Why Create GRSW?

- Traffic fatalities are a growing problem worldwide. More than 1 million people are killed in traffic crashes each year. Moreover, the World Health Organization (WHO) projects that traffic fatalities will become the third leading cause of death and disability in the world by 2020.
- For more information on GRSW, go to: www.who.int/roadsafety/en/.
- The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has developed template media materials for groups interested in linking their upcoming safety events to GRSW: www.nhtsa.dot.gov.
