

Large Truck and Bus Traffic Enforcement

In partnership with the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration, IADLEST is proud to facilitate instructional workshops for a new FMCSA commercial vehicle safety initiative entitled, Large Truck and Bus Enforcement Training (T&BET). This four-hour block of instruction re-establishes the importance of having municipal and other local law enforcement officers (in addition to those representing state highway agencies) actively engaged in enforcing moving and equipment violations associated with large trucks, buses, and other commercial vehicles. The effort is currently targeted in specific locations within ten states representing the highest national percentage of fatality and serious injury crashes involving commercial and passenger vehicles:

Texas
California
Illinois
North Carolina
Ohio
Pennsylvania
Georgia
Florida
Indiana
New York

With more officers actively observing and enforcing traffic laws involving these large trucks and buses, we are confident we can reduce the number of serious injuries and fatalities throughout the country.

The T&BET curriculum also prepares local law enforcement instructors to deliver the materials in their respective agencies. Each participant will receive a “Train-the-Trainer” package that includes: an instructional lesson plan, videos, slides and guidelines for the consistent delivery of this IADLEST National Certified Program. Officers attending the T&BET program will receive certificates and in-service credit.

For more information, please contact:

Keith Ternes
IADLEST - Project Manager
keithternes@iadlest.org