“A light shines on each victim and survivor as we go out and educate, people about the dangers of drunk driving, may the survivors, victims and all families know that is our mission.”

-Quinton Higgins Jr
May 14, 1988

It was a wonderful day hanging out with friends at Kings Island in Cincinnati, OH. Everyone had just gotten on the bus and was exhausted from the fun filled day and was ready to make the trip home. Little did we all know our lives would be forever changed.

Larry Mahoney was also going home after having had some drinks. He stopped at a friends home where they briefly took his keys and gave them back with the promise he would go home. On Mr. Mahoney’s way home he got on the Interstate 71 heading the wrong way on the interstate and collided with our church bus.

The impact caused a puncture in the gas tank which sparked a fire, 27 people died.

Voice for Change

Created in 2014, Voice for Change was founded by Quinton Higgins Jr. His desire is to go out and educate people about the dangers of driving impaired though documentaries like “Impact After the Crash”, which is a documentary of the Carrollton bus crash, personal testimony, pictures and public speaking.

Quinton speaks about the effects and consequences caused by impaired driving, how throughout his own life drugs and alcohol effected him and how to get past those hurts and overcome to be a productive citizen.

Quinton has spoken at churches, schools, impact panels for impaired drivers, MADD events, and military bases.

Contact Us

Voice for Change
103 Dailey Court
Radcliff, KY 40160

(270) 312-0018
godman38@aol.com

Quinton’s story

At the age of 15, Quinton Higgins Jr was in the world’s worst drunk driving accident to date. Quinton, currently a Hardin County bus driver, goes throughout the state of Kentucky and Indiana sharing about the impact drugs and alcohol has had in his life. Quinton also works with the bus safety panel in the Hardin County schools to help train and educate the students about how important bus safety can play a role in helping save their life.